The Festival Internacional de Teatro Mujeres sobre las Tablas project aims to present theatrical performances as part of this eponymous festival and in conjunction with the International Day Against Violence Against Women.

Workshops and training sessions for women and young people will be established to raise awareness about gender-based violence and bring positive change.

Conferences and debates on topics such as women in Dominican society, child marriages, and gender-based violence will be organized in collaboration with schools and communities.

Additionally, a communication strategy is being developed, involving the production and distribution of awareness-raising videos on social networks.

Finally, artistic expression will be used to showcase the work of women, whether actresses, technicians, or playwrights, as well as to promo
