The Producer Acceleration Program (PAP) is an initiative of the Fiji Audiovisual Lab (FAV Lab) that aims to facilitate development programmes to enable producers to acquire the essential skills to find funding and co-production partners for film, television or documentary projects in Fiji.

As part of this, financial planning workshops, including the execution of a production budget, will be organised for each phase of film making, from development through to distribution.

In addition, co-production and presentation workshops will enable producers to understand the key aspects of producing a show on the one hand, and to benefit from advice on the various forms of project presentation on the other.

Finally, the project aims to build skills within the local film industry, while making it self-sufficient, robust, and visible on foreign markets, with a view to attracting investment to Fiji.
