The aim of the “Trench Town Cultural Hub” project is to create a supportive ecosystem focused on the development of artists through a series of stages ranging from training and certification to professional performance, talent development and exposure, income generation and wealth creation. The project will be based in the iconic birthplace of reggae, Trench Town, in the southern part of Kingston.

It will include the development of an internationally recognized, certified music-making curriculum and a strategic partnership with the local polytechnic and affiliate organizations. There will also be a dedicated space for the development of skills, competencies, and attitudes for the creative industries.

The Ambassador Theatre will also be refurbished to showcase talent throughout the year. The French Town Reggae Festival will also be renovated.
