The 'Trajectoire' project aims to showcase the creations of young choreographers from West Africa by creating a localized and virtual space offering services across different stages of the value chain: training, creation, production, and market access.

In this context, eleven young dancer-choreographers and five cultural administrators have benefited from training in creating high-quality choreographic works, managing creative teams, and mastering digital tools. This has enabled the support of five relevant artistic projects for production and dissemination in sub-regional and international markets.

Furthermore, a shared workspace has been set up and equipped at CDC-La Termitière to serve as a co-working space. The establishment of a production office has facilitated the mobility of artists, providing visibility for contemporary creation in Africa and supporting dancer-choreographers with project management, fundraising, or tour organization.

Lastly, an exchange and dissemination network has facilitated the integration of artists into professional networks while ensuring their visibility to the general public through traditional distribution channels and new digital platforms.
