The project 'Television Series on Cultural and Educational Workshops for Young Artists in Koror State' aims to organize and film a series of cultural and educational workshops for young Palauan artists, particularly musicians and artists aged 18 to 30, in Koror State, Palau.

In this context, workshops were led by Palauan historians, musicians, and professional artists to educate thirty young artists, particularly musicians and artists aged 18 to 30, in Koror State, about Palauan music, its history, and significance.

Furthermore, these workshops were filmed to create a series that will be broadcasted on a local television channel and online platforms, with the specific goal of teaching Palauan music history and reaching a broader audience.

Finally, professional-level training and mentorship in music and entertainment were offered, covering topics such as concert organization, production of promotional videos, live radio interviews, press release writing, local media outreach, fundraising for their events, public stage performance, as well as networking opportunities within the local and international entertainment industry.
