The project 'Rotuma: Honoring and Documenting Our Island Heritage' aims to preserve the cultural heritage and document the geographical and ecological locations of Rotuma Island, part of the Fiji archipelago.

As part of this project, an interactive 360-degree virtual tour has been created, featuring interactive digital content such as ecological information, historical narratives, and cultural aspects.

Additionally, beyond the virtual tour, a platform is being developed to explore Rotuman sites, culture, and heritage.

Moreover, beyond engaging local leaders and the population, this project connects the diaspora of Rotuman descendants to create a true community and provide young Rotumans with professional mentorship stemming from it.

Finally, the project contributes to content conservation in a friendly manner through a multigenerational vision aimed at protecting and continuing the living traditions of Rotuma Island and its 1500 inhabitants, whose language and culture are among the most endangered in the world according to UNESCO ranking.
